

TROOPS TO THE FRONT.

SPAIN ALARMED AT THE CUBAN REVOLUTION.

Strict News Censorship—Many Conflicting Reports as to the Importance of the Uprising.

KEY WEST (Fla.), May 3.—News has reached here that it is officially announced in Havana that Satorius and his followers have surrendered with their horses and arms. They have all been liberated on parole. The latest information before this announcement was that the insurgents were located between Puerto Padre and Manate. It was stated yesterday that they had been reduced by desertions to but twenty-five and they were pursued so closely by seven scouting parties that it was expected they would either surrender or be captured.

Almost complete reticence continues to characterize every department of the public service in Havana. Every avenue for obtaining news is closed and all information regarding the uprising in the eastern provinces is guarded. A strict censorship is maintained over the press and cable, and only that which is favorable to the Government is allowed to be sent out. Occasionally an item from a correspondent in the interior favorable to the insurgents finds its way into print, and only from these and subsequent measures adopted by the authorities in that locality do the natives get any comfort.

There is little doubt that the uprising was premature, and therefore the movement only received the support of the most impetuous and enthusiastic. For this reason, too, it is deplored if not actually repudiated by those leaders whose well-matured plans have been thereby frustrated. While it is claimed that the most prominent leaders of the 1868 insurrection are in the present uprising, their names do not appear among those now in revolt.

The authorities, however, continue active measures to suppress the uprising. Troops are constantly being sent eastward. All available war vessels are centering there. The gunboat Jorge Juan left Sunday for Zibars with 150 regulars belonging to the Farrogonne regiment, under Captain Gonzales. The steam launch Caridad has been ordered to Nuevitas. Orders have been issued to the gunboat Telegrafo to get ready for sea.

On the steamer Herrera, which sailed yesterday, fifty-five mounted guards under Captain Munoz, and fifty guerrillas under Captain Lacoste left for Nuevitas. A company of guerrillas has also been sent from Batabano for Santiago de Cuba. This shows that under the surface and in spite of apparent indifference some alarm is felt.

Mail advices from Havana to-night bring quieting news, if they can be believed. La Lucha and Discusion say Governor General Arias has received telegrams from the Sojas of San Luis and other towns in the district of Santiago saying the civil authorities will preserve the peace and are offering all support. One dispatch places the rebel forces at ten and assures the Governor-General that they will lay down their arms if their lives are spared. The military captain of the Santiago district believes the rebels will surrender.

The Government dispatches state that the rebel forces are small and not increasing, and locates them at one time in the bushes on horseback, and according to another telegram of the same date they are said to be between Puerto Padre and Manate. All dispatches belittle the movement and indicate the early surrender of the troops, but the truth of it is mistrusted because of the rapid and vigorous movements of the Spanish troops. The Minister of War at Madrid telegraphed the Governor-General yesterday to use all vigorous measures necessary for the suppression of the rebellion and to arm all troops with repeating rifles.

Dissatisfaction expressed in Spain at the course of Governor General Arias in Cuba led to his tendering his resignation on May 1st. This act is regretted by the Spanish papers, and is censured as premature and due to the too delicate feelings of General Arias. General La Chambre has been placed in charge of the Spanish troops in Orient. There are seven companies of infantry and three or four companies of cavalry in Orient, but they have encountered no insurgents yet.

The steamer Villa Verde, which landed the battalion of Tarragona at Jibara, left Havana again yesterday with Senor Elias and other aids and troops to join General La Chambre. The Minister of War at Madrid has ordered all the troops in the Canaries and Porto Rico to Cuba immediately. Troops from Cadiz, Barcelona and Santander have been ordered to the Canaries and Porto Rico. After a short stay for acclimation they will be sent to Cuba.

News of the revolt in Manzanillo has been confirmed. The importance of the movement may be understood from the fact that the Secretary of War, General Lopez Dominguez, answered Representative Portuonko, declaring that orders had been given for the movement of all regiments in the Canaries and Porto Rico to Cuba.

Colonel Marcana, chief in the first war, is at the head of the force in Manzanillo. In spite of the protests of the civil authorities in the Santiago district that the peace would be maintained by the civil authorities and that a military proclamation was unnecessary, the district has been declared in a state of siege. The military commander of Santiago admits that the first party of insurgents numbered 150. They are said to be secure in the fastness of the mountains in Chaparra.

A private letter to La Lucha states that the President of the autonomist party called on the authorities of Holguin and stated that the men were ready to surrender if promised safety, and some groups had been already dissolved.
